Detail Hotel

Formerly the London residence of the Earl of Strathmore, the late Queen Mother's father, this converted Victorian mansion is a 4-minute walk from the Natural History, Science and V&A museums, and 0.2 miles from the Gloucester Road tube station.

Elegant rooms with a contemporary flavour have marble and granite bathrooms, as well as flat-screen TVs and Wi-Fi (surcharge). Room service is available.

There's a refined restaurant with high ceilings and a chandelier, and a glamorous bar with carved panelling and an original fireplace, which offers light snacks and afternoon tea. Meeting rooms and business facilities are also available.
